

Additional Benefits

In addition to the healthcare, flexible spending account and retirement benefits described elsewhere in this Benefits Summary, Stryker offers the following additional benefits to eligible employees:

- Adoption Assistance Plan
- Employee Assistance Program

Adoption Assistance Plan

Stryker's Adoption Assistance Plan reimburses you for legal fees and certain other costs associated with adopting a child.

How Adoption Assistance Benefits Work

The plan reimburses you—up to $5,000 per adoption—for necessary fees and expenses related to the legal adoption of an eligible child. The plan defines an eligible child as an individual who is either:

- A child under the age of 18; or
- Any disabled person who is unable to care for himself/herself due to a physical or mental disability.

Eligibility

You are eligible for adoption assistance benefits on your date of hire if you are a full-time employee regularly scheduled to work at least 40 hours each week, or you are a part-time employee regularly scheduled to work at least 20 hours each week.

Eligible Expenses

Eligible expenses include:

- Court costs;
- Attorney fees;
- Adoption agency fees; and
- Charges for immigration services, including immunizations and translation fees.

Important to Remember

If you are married to another Stryker employee and are seeking to adopt a child, the two of you are subject to the same dollar and lifetime maximum benefits as an individual employee.

Eligible expenses must meet all of the following requirements:

- They are directly related to your legal adoption of an eligible child.
- They are incurred after you become eligible for adoption assistance benefits.
- They are filed while you are employed by the Company.

Benefit Maximums

The maximum plan reimbursement is $5,000 per adoption. The plan pays benefits for up to two adoptions per employee per lifetime. If you are attempting two adoptions at the same time, you must provide adequate documentation of both adoption attempts in order to qualify for benefits in excess of $5,000. If you are married to another Stryker employee and are seeking to adopt a child, the two of you are subject to the same dollar and lifetime maximum benefits as an individual employee.

Special Tax Treatment

All amounts paid by the Adoption Assistance Plan are subject to Social Security and Medicare taxes (FICA) as well as federal unemployment tax (FUTA). Federal and state income taxes are also withheld from adoption assistance benefit payments.

Under current tax law, and depending on your circumstances, adoption assistance benefits may qualify for federal income tax exclusion. You may also be able to claim an adoption tax credit on your federal income tax return for any adoption expenses you incur in excess of $5,000. You should consult a tax advisor to determine the ultimate taxation of the benefits paid to you under this plan.

Expenses Not Covered

The Adoption Assistance Plan does not provide reimbursement for the following:

- Expenses related to a surrogate parenting arrangement;
- Expenses incurred in violation of a federal or state law;
- Expenses that have been reimbursed through another plan or any state, local or federal program;
- Expenses incurred in connection with travel;
- Expenses incurred in connection with the adoption of your spouse's child;
- Expenses incurred and/or filed for reimbursement before you were eligible for adoption assistance benefits;
- Expenses incurred and/or filed for reimbursement after your employment terminates; or
- Expenses that you claim as a credit or deduction on your federal income tax.

Claim forms for adoption assistance benefits are available from your Benefits representative.

How to Obtain Adoption Assistance Benefits

During the adoption process, be sure to keep itemized receipts for all of the expenses you incur. File your claim only after the adoption is final and you have incurred all of your expenses. Complete a claim form, attach all of the itemized receipts and submit the claim to your Benefits representative.

Your claim must be submitted before December 1 of the year following the year in which adoption expenses were incurred. For example, you have until December 1, 2019 to file a claim for expenses incurred at any time in 2018.

In most cases, your claim will be paid within 60 days or less. The total approved reimbursement amount will be added to your paycheck, less applicable FICA, FUTA and income taxes.
